Minister's Message

The following is an excerpt from Rev. Sharon Wylie's sermon "Deeds Not Creeds" offered on April 20, 2025. This transcript has been lightly edited for clarity. You can watch the full sermon on Chalice's YouTube channel.

Rev. Sharon Wylie
Minister

In January, when we talked about salvation (and I do mean we talked about it; it was not so much me preaching as us talking popcorn-style together), we started with the questions: What do we need saving from? And what will save us? Trump was fresh on our hearts that inauguration week, and where we arrived tentatively after half an hour is the idea that what we need saving from in this lifetime is the worst that humans can do to each other and that what will save us is the best that humans can do to each other....

When we talk about theological questions, we have to interrogate them about where do they lead us in terms of our real-life practices. So if you teach a young child that Jesus or God will always protect them and keep them safe, the danger is that they don't know how to keep themselves safe. They may engage in dangerous behaviors, imagining that God is going to keep them safe as they cycle into the street or jump off the swing or whatever. We have to think about the real life applications of our theological beliefs.

And I think one of the dangers of the idea that "the best of humanity will save us" is that that's a really high bar, and it may cause us to withdraw from humanity, right? I can be my best self alone in my living room, peaceful, I have no mean thoughts towards anybody, and I don't read the news, it feels like the less I read the news, the better in touch I am with my best self. And that's not where we can let our theology lead us. We need to be engaged with the world. All of our talking about salvation that day was about how we interact with each other, so we have to be clear that we want to be—our "better selves," I would say is maybe a gentler phrase—our better selves in relationship with all of us, including people who disagree with us.

And that's why I wanted to hear Reverend Budde's words again. We'll probably hear it again in a few months (I need that sermon every morning when I wake up). How do we speak up for what's important to us and engage when we can with people with very different ideas and hold our respect for them, be honest about what we're thinking and feeling, and yet not demonize other people. That's why we heard our story this morning that I hope can be a mantra for you as it is for me: most people are good people. Those aren't the people who make the news; when we read the news, we're going to be reading about some of the worst of humanity, that's the nature of the news.

That's our tougher task is what I'm reminding you: our salvation is to be our better selves. So let this be a joyful time. I think that our being in community together is more important than ever because if we're to try to live into the better selves we want to be, to engage with people with different ideas, and to not shy away from those conversations, and to be honest and yet respectful, to not mock and belittle other people, first and foremost, don't try to have these conversations online. It just doesn't lend itself to that. If we're to move back towards national unity across our differences, it will need to come from face-to-face interactions. And I know there are those among you who feel curious about that: how can we make that happen, how can we start to have those discussions.

That's the work ahead of us, and I think also it's work ahead of us to help call other people into these ideas of setting aside mocking and belittling others in favor of difficult conversation. Reverend Budde calls us to finding common ground, not necessarily changing other people's minds (although that's the hope of our hearts), but we can try to listen to each other about our shared values.

Blessings,
Sharon

President's Column

Lara Brown
Board President

Greetings Chalice!

Congratulations, Chalice, we did it! Our pledge drive for our 2025-2026 congregational year was a huge success! We were able to meet our goal of $327,000 thanks to your generous pledges during our "Together, A Force for Good" campaign. A warm, heartfelt "Thank You!" to everyone who was able to make a pledge commitment.

Though our pledge drive is over, our theme of "Together, A Force for Good", is still strong in our hearts and minds. Many of us were out being a force for good on April 5 for the National Day of Action "Hands Off" rallies. And we were out again on April 19, for the Indivisible "Stop the Cuts" rallies. Some of us participated in the National Alliance of Mental Illness (NAMI) walk on April 26, raising funds and awareness.

And here's the thing: we can't stop. I have heard Paul Courtright, one of the leaders of our Social Justice team, say this on the courtyard after services as he discusses different social justice actions with congregants. The times we are living in call each of us to consistently and persistently be that Force for Good. That will look different to different people at different times. To Jerry Carter it is showing up every week outside of Darrell Issa's office to protest. To others it may be volunteering to teach Religious Education to children and youth at Chalice. It might be helping at the San Diego Food Bank with Debbie Resler, or serving meals at Interfaith Community Services with Steve Schlesinger. It might be educating yourself on how to intervene as a bystander (<https://righttobe.org/training/bystander-intervention-training/>), or it might be practicing the art of kindness everywhere you go. Whatever a Force for Good looks like to you, knowing you are part of a community working together makes our work easier and more joyful.

Wishing you a May rich in blessings and opportunities to bring more good and light into the world,

Lara Brown

President, Board of Trustees

P.S.

If you are a member of Chalice, now would be a good time to put our congregational meeting on your calendar : Sunday, June 8. at 12:00pm. Our pledge commitments become the basis of our budget which will be voted on at this meeting. In addition, we will be voting in new Board of Trustees members. To establish a quorum we need 33% of our voting membership in attendance, so please plan to join us.

Hymns of the Month

Since October 2023, our Sunday worship services have featured a Hymn of the Month. These hymns have challenged us, given us insight into the music and composers of Unitarian Universalism, and helped us to explore the dynamic and changing nature of our world as it is expressed through our hymns. You've worked hard to learn all of these hymns! So here is your reward.... a Hymn of the Month Word Search Puzzle! You'll find the names of the first 20 Hymns of the Month in the puzzle. Afternoon Book Club

This new Chalice book discussion group welcomes readers of all backgrounds who enjoy diving into fiction and nonfiction that inspire deep, thought-provoking discussions. Each month, we will read a book suggested by our members—whether it's a novel that sheds light on the human condition or a nonfiction work that challenges our perspectives. This is a space for open-minded dialogue, where diverse viewpoints are encouraged and connections are made through shared insights.

Afternoon Book Club meetings will be held on the third Thursday of the month from 2-3:30 pm in the Yellow room in the Hub, beginning in June. At our first meeting on June 19, we will discuss the book "Lovely One" by Ketanji Brown Jackson.

Description of "Lovely One" from the publisher:

"With this unflinching account, Justice Ketanji Brown Jackson invites readers into her life and world, tracing her family's ascent from segregation to her confirmation on America's highest court within the span of one generation.

Named "Ketanji Onyika," meaning "Lovely One," based on a suggestion from her aunt, a Peace Corps worker stationed in West Africa, Justice Jackson learned from her educator parents to take pride in her heritage since birth. She describes her resolve as a young girl to honor this legacy and realize her dreams: from hearing stories of her grandparents and parents breaking barriers in the segregated South, to honing her voice in high school as an oratory champion and student body president, to graduating magna cum laude from Harvard, where she performed in musical theater and improv and participated in pivotal student organizations.

Here, Justice Jackson pulls back the curtain, marrying the public record of her life with what is less known. She reveals what it takes to advance in the legal profession when most people in power don't look like you, and to reconcile a demanding career with the joys and sacrifices of marriage and motherhood.

Through trials and triumphs, Justice Jackson's journey will resonate with dreamers everywhere, especially those who nourish outsized ambitions and refuse to be turned aside. This moving, openhearted tale will spread hope for a more just world, for generations to come."

Please contact the office at office@chaliceuucongregation.org if you have any questions or to get on the Afternoon Book Club contact list.

All Church Camp: Breathe In Peace, Breathe Out Love May 30th-June 1st

Join us for this year's All Church Camp, where our theme is "Breathe in Peace, Breathe Out Love." (Gratitude to Victoria Cagle, who came up with this year's theme.)

Camp de Benneville Pines, a four-season Unitarian Universalist (UU) camp, located in the San Bernardino Mountains, offers a unique opportunity for campers of all ages to connect with nature, build community, and engage in a variety of activities, including hiking, swimming, archery, and more, all within a welcoming and inclusive environment.

The camp offers a variety of activities throughout the year, from hiking, swimming, and archery in the warmer months to snowshoeing, snow sculpting, and sledding in the winter. It is nestled in a forest of towering pines, cedars, and oaks, providing campers with opportunities to connect with nature and build community.

Campers are housed in comfortable but rustic cabins with showers and bathrooms down the hall. It also offers wonderful food prepared for all diets. Mostly, Camp de Benneville Pines provides a space for campers to recharge, connect with nature, and build lasting friendships. There will be activities that can be done as a family and also activities that children can do without their grown-ups to give the adults some time for themselves as well.

Please share your talents with us! Can you lead a meditation? An art class, craft, or a drum circle? Can you teach archery or co-lead a hike? Please let Kathleen Swift or Victoria Cagle know.

Group Announcements

Women's Book Discussion Group

On May 20th at 6:30 pm the Chalice Women's Book Discussion Group will meet in the Hub or via Zoom to discuss The Vanishing Act of Esme Lennox by Maggie O'Farrell. If you are interested, please contact the office at office@chaliceucongregation.org. Non-binary and trans women are warmly invited

Excerpt from The New York Times:

In her fourth novel, "The Vanishing Act of Esme Lennox," the British author Maggie O'Farrell takes the notion of the loony relative and turns it on its head. What if, against all the odds, the apparently batty aunt might actually be normal and everybody else seems to be nuts?

One morning in Edinburgh, Iris Lockhart gets a phone call asking her to retrieve her great-aunt from the insane asylum where she has spent the last 60 years. The institution is closing down, and Iris is listed as the person to contact about the old woman's affairs. It's the first Iris has ever heard of Great-Aunt Esme, and naturally she's torn between insatiable curiosity and deep apprehension.

Iris's widowed mother, now living in Australia, has never heard of Esme either, and Iris's grandmother — Esme's supposed sister — is lost in the fog of Alzheimer's disease. When Iris visits the asylum's records room to learn why Esme was locked away as a 16-year-old, she reads of other female patients interned during the same period. The list, it appears, could have been expanded to include any woman who defied the social mores of the day. (Esme's file reveals merely that her parents found her "dancing before a mirror, dressed in her mother's clothes.")

After failing to locate alternative housing, Iris reluctantly brings her great aunt home. Six decades of being an institutionalized shut-in have left Esme strangely childlike — playing with the buttons on the dashboard of Iris's car, listening to the bubbles in her sparkling water. But Esme doesn't seem very dangerous — or very crazy — and Iris slowly warms to her. As the events that led to her incarceration are gradually revealed, so does the reader.

The plot alternates between backward looks at Esme's stuffy childhood in India and Scotland and present-day scenes that follow Iris's attempts to piece together the gaps in her family history by interviewing her grandmother, whose jumbled monologues veer exasperatingly from one subject to the next. There is a startling and darkly rewarding finale. Suffice it to say, sometimes revenge is much more therapeutic than forgiveness.

Dine Out Group

We meet on the 4th Tuesday of each month. The Dine Out Group will meet on May 27th at 6:00pm at The Mining Company, 579 Grand Ave. San Marcos in the Best Buy shopping center.

Please RSVP to Cindy or contact the office at office@chaliceuucongregation.org. Singles and couples are welcome for conversation, catching up and getting acquainted. This is an open group that enjoys breaking bread together.

Memoir Writing Group

The Memoir Writing Group currently meets via Zoom on the fourth Friday of the month at 10 AM. The meetings last 1 ½ hours. If you are interested in joining the group, please contact Emily or contact the office at office@chaliceuucongregation.org.

Oftentimes in literature a character will discover a lost letter, journal, manuscript, or photograph and that discovery will inspire the plot of the book or story. Have you ever made such a discovery? What was revealed by it? If you were to find a lost document, what would you like to discover?

You are invited to join us when we meet again on the fourth Friday of May.

Ladies Out to Lunch

The Ladies out to Lunch group will meet on Friday, May 16 at 11:30 AM. We will meet at China Fun in Rancho Bernardo, 11932 Bernardo Plaza Drive, in the Vons shopping center. Please rsvp to Carol or contact the office at office@chaliceucongregation.org.

Circle Suppers

Each month, Chalice members gather in homes to share a meal. This is a time when we have a chance to get to know each individual in an informal setting. Circle Suppers are held on the third Saturday evening of every month. The time is usually 6 pm. The host provides the main course for dinner and the other participants provide additional dishes to complete the meal.

If you find this interesting and would like to participate, contact Emily or contact the office at office@chaliceucongregation.org for more information.

Humanism Discussion Group

Humanism is a philosophy that places humans and their well-being at the center of attention. It emphasizes the significance of reason, ethics, and compassion in guiding our lives, rather than relying on supernatural beliefs. Humanism acknowledges the potential for humans to create positive change and emphasizes the importance of social justice, equality, and the pursuit of knowledge. We seek to understand this universe in which we find ourselves and discover what is and what things matter.

The Humanism Discussion Group started in September 2023 and meets the third Wednesday evening of the month from 7 to 9 pm in the Blue room at Chalice and on zoom. We invite everyone, regardless of their background or beliefs, to participate in these enlightening conversations.

In addition to open discussions, we have been discussing books suggested by our participants. Some recent books include:

1. "The God Delusion" by Richard Dawkins
2. "god is not Great" by Christopher Hitchens
3. "The God Part of the Brain" by Matthew Alper

In addition to book discussions, we also discuss a variety of topics such as "how Humanists handle the holidays" and "the role of culture in forming our morals and ethics". I also find interesting short science videos and articles to discuss such as:

1. "The Shock of Faith" by David Brooks, NYT article
2. "The Believing Brain: Evolution, Neuroscience, and the Spiritual Instinct," https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p0_-7FmrDq8
3. "I don't believe in free will. This is why." Sabine Hossenfelder, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TI5FMj5D9zU>
4. "Why Smart People Believe Stupid Things", <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5Peima-Uw7w>

If you are interested in Humanism or just curious what it is about, please consider joining us for our next discussion group. There are also many resources on the web including the American Humanist Association and the Freedom from Religion Foundation.

Contact Tom or contact the office at office@chaliceucongregation.org.
